$$\frac{300,000}{365} = 821 \text{ sheets of glass per day}$$

$$\frac{821}{24} \approx 34 \text{ sheets per hour}$$

The screenshot shows a Rumble video player interface. The video content is a flat Earth diagram with concentric circles representing latitude lines. Handwritten annotations in green, orange, and blue are overlaid on the diagram. A yellow circle highlights the text 'winter solstice:'. A green arrow points to the diagram with the text 'any country you want? still never has >12 hours of sunlight ever!'. An orange arrow points to the diagram with the text 'this is the biggest the sun light circle can be'. The video title is 'The Lost History of Flat Earth by Ewaranon (FULL DOCUMENTARY)'. The channel name is 'benwehrman' with 1.7K followers. The video has 6 likes and 0 comments.

The sun is always

the same distance

from every layer in this model.

The color change at sunset cannot depend on distance in the ionization model because the distances are constant.
